Language of Instruction	English
Restrictions for International Students	Bachelor of Journalism, Bachelor of Medical Imaging, Bachelor of Science in Chemical Technology, Bachelor of Science in Environmental Biology, Nursing and Psychology. Some courses in these programs are still available to students. Please consult with the Study Abroad & Mobility Office. *Please note that students' transcripts and course request lists are evaluated by the academic advisors at the University of Regina to ensure that students have the academic background for the classes that they select.
Standard Credit Load for Term (Fall or Winter)	Exchange students must be enrolled as full-time students while on exchange. This means that students may be enrolled in 3, 4, or 5 classes. Five is the maximum number of classes a student can take (this equates to 15 credit hours in the North American system). We generally recommend that the students take 3 or 4 classes as 5 classes is extremely demanding.
Standard Course Load for an Academic Year	With 3-5 classes per semester, a full academic course load ranges from 6-10 classes over two terms (Fall and Winter terms).
Important Notes About Classes / Courses	Please note that all students' transcripts and course request lists are evaluated by the academic advisors at the University of Regina to ensure that students have the academic background for the classes that they select. While students are allowed to take five classes per semester, we strongly discourage this due to the amount of work in a single course load. If students from your institution will be required to take five courses, we ask that you notify us immediately .
Division of Academic Years	Term one: Fall term, begins in September, ends in December Term two: Winter term, begins in January, ends in April
Registration for Courses	Exchange students are not permitted to register themselves in classes. Each student must have the classes they wish to take evaluated by an academic advisor at the University of Regina. Using the student's transcript, our academic advisors will determine if students are eligible for the classes they have selected. A student may not register for classes until an academic advisor has been in contact with them. For students who study on exchange for an academic year, they will be responsible for setting up an appointment with their academic advisor on campus to register in classes for their second term.
